course food coloring. I thought I'd add the top lollipop facts that include how 5000 lollipops are made per minute and the first factory made 40 million lollipops per minute. That factory was in Racine, WI. Nobody truly knows how many licks it takes to get to the center of a tootsie pop. The largest lollipop in the world weighed over 7000 pounds and was made by the candy company See's Candies. July 20th is national lollipop day, cot-

Lollipops are sweet, hard, multi-colored, and essentially fruit flavored candies that come in round ball shapes, flat swirly circles, or twisty wand-shaped candy on a stick. It is consumed through sucking and licking but can be bit if you want to see whether or not your teeth or the hard candy is stronger. Many different companies make the lollipops but a popular small ball-shaped one is known as DumDums. There's a version that involves caramel on a stick like the brand Sugar Daddy or there's brands that include chocolate in the middle and is covered with a hard chocolate or fruit flavored shell like the candy Tootsie Pop. There's even lollipops like Blow Pops that have gum in the middle of the fruit flavored hard shell. Lollipops are really cheap and can be sold separately but usually are sold in packs. Another bonus is that you can literally find them at any store. That is of course if you aren't looking to purchase the swirly pops, the swirly lollipops can come super small like a pebble or come as round as your face and even in the middle like the size of a cd. They are made with corn syrup, sugar, water, fruit flavoring, and of ton candy flavor is the most popular lollipop flavor, and some people call them suckers.
